

Relationship Structures - Attachment Styles Across Relationships

This application is designed to help you learn more about the way you mentally represent important people in your life. You will be asked to answer questions about your parents, your romantic partners, and your friends. When you are finished, the program will analyze your responses and provide you with a summary of how these different relationships are organized in your mind. This application takes about 5 to 10 minutes to complete.

<https://www.yourpersonality.net/relstructures/>

The feedback section of this application uses JavaScript. Please make sure JavaScript is enabled on your browser to ensure that you get your results.

This application was developed by R. Chris Fraley and is to be used for educational purposes only. The application is based on the Experiences in Close Relationships-Relationships Structures measure of adult attachment styles.